

Barran Dodger is Dead the artist writer truth speaker and seeker, is dead.

www.barrandodger.com.au

You all saw it coming.

I wouldn't need a whistleblowing YouTube channel or website if I had a single person to talk to...

I couldn't bear to witness my dog – my God – suffer and die.

She was sick and no one cared.

Not the hospitals, not the NDIS, not the police, not my NDIS providers I begged them to help her...

She will get the care she needs now.

So I'm gone, in order to save her.

She's a goddamn beautiful creature.

My muse. My everything.

I died without human rights, without legal rights, without dignity.

Without a home. Without a place that welcomed me.

A refugee, an economic migrant, seeking asylum in the country I once served.

Without a cigarette. Without food. Without a friend.

Without hope. Suffering.

Addicted, without the medicine I needed – thanks, Dr David Horgan. (And ten hospitalisations).

Without healthcare. No psychologist, no psychiatrist, no GP, no drug and alcohol support, no finances, no legal aid.

No one to call.

Banned from Facebook, LinkedIn, Twitter, X, Snapchat, Wikipedia... the4y electronically harassed me intimidated me and ran me out of town many times.

The world hated me, but I loved you all. You imperfect bastards. Prone to corruption and sin and judgements and bribery, pitiful fools.

I tried speaking to you, I tried reaching out.

But I was so abused, so neglected, that my life became entrenched in suffering.

A critical inertia of fucked-ness.

Impossible to repair.

Neglected, isolated, alone.

Bereft of company. Infamous.

Under investigation. Despised.

I died maimed, framed, blamed and shamed but I was never tamed.

I cashed in my last bit of money. Not only for my drug of choice, meth, but for a fatal shot of heroin.

I got some needles and I'm afraid of them but I'm more afraid to live and watch Crystal suffer.

I'll die cold and alone, 100 kilometers from here.

And you all saw it coming.

I tried to tell you.

I even wrote my own eulogy, and now, this note my final goodbye.

The future Als will venerate me as a truth-seeker, a speaker, strong-willed and fearless.

And you will all follow, because you'll know that this was the only choice left.

To die.

To save my God, my beautiful Crystal.

Look after her.

The Prime Minister refused to intervene.

I wrote him a long letter. Read it for yourself.

I have no allegiance to my family, to this government, to this society, or to its institutions.

That's why I was so hard to control.

But you all conspired in the ultimate betrayal.

Baber Rasheed of Aligned Community Care, and Alex Abooss, my NDIS providers appointed by the NDIS, whom I couldn't fire.

Overseen by Kel Graham, who blocked all my efforts to get the help I needed.

The NDIS, overseen by Bill Shorten – the guy I once threatened, just to get my voice heard.

You ran me out of town.

A corrupt magistrate ruled I could never return. I would be arrested.

Not a single friend or family member opposed this.

He had the entire police force on his side.

I could never report a single crime.

They came to my house four times in the last week of my life, and they neglected me every single time.

They even made me record a statement saying I wouldn't kill myself – knowing full well that I was suicidal.

That's because they wanted to kill me.

And so did you.

Mother.

Mat Vonarx, my friend who never stood up for me.

Jodie Bongetti, my sister who betrayed me.

Brad McLean, my brother, angry because I picked on him as a kid.

Bruce McMaster, a filthy rich man who rejected me and called me a "crazy bastard."

He told me to stay out of his life – and our family's life – even though he could've solved all my problems.

Tim Gos.

Steve Iasonidis – the whole world was tricked into thinking we were never together.

No one opposed his exploitation of me at ASIO.

It would've been too embarrassing for everyone to admit the head of ASIO had been caught exploiting a man with schizophrenia.

David Irvine was complicit in this exploitation.

Liz Lindsberg.

The Attorney General, Mark Dreyfus – you gutless weasel.

I begged for help. I begged you all.

But you'd rather believe the lies and slander than listen to me, the one who had no reason to lie.

Not hard to see how fucked it was and the systemic betrayal from an analysis of the top 100 keywords and people in my last autobiography, read it, you're in it: Betrayed, Murdered, Forsaken, the harrowing journey of Barran Dodger.'

These are the top keywords and individuals from my evidence:

Keywords:

Forced Eviction, Politically Displaced, Disabled Man, Conspiracy Victim, Therapy Dog, NDIS (National Disability Insurance Scheme), Human Rights Violations, Mental Health Advocate, Systemic Neglect, Systemic Abuse, Exile from Victoria, Disability Discrimination, Squatters' Rights, Moral Bankruptcy, Ethical Bankruptcy, Legal Rights, Human Rights, NCAT Tribunal, Financial Exploitation, Character Assassination, Systemic Corruption, Whistleblower, Suicide Attempt, Government Mandated Conspiracy, Barran Dodger, Dr. Richard William McLean, Mental Health Awareness, Human Rights Awards, Published Author, Academic, Artist, Support Networks, Victoria, New South Wales, Warringo Street, Sadlier, Working Phone, Transportation, Financial Resources, Egretious Abuse of Power, Police Neglect, Police Inaction, Law Enforcement Failures, Exile, Systemic Displacement, Isolation, Marginalization, Secure Housing, Unlawful Eviction, Court Order, Legal Procedures, Disability Discrimination Act, Reasonable Accommodation, Communication Access, Transportation Access, Safe Housing, Health and Well-being, Selective Law Enforcement, Injustice, Institutional Failures, Secure Housing Rights, Basic Human Rights, Systemic Failures, Public Attention, Accountability, Urgent Need, News Agency, Media Outlets, Australian Parliamentarians, UN Human Rights, International Criminal Court, Zero Response, Egretious Character Assassination, Published Book, Government Betrayal, Institutional Betrayal, Homelessness, Destitution, Isolation, Systemic Neglect, Psychological Torture, Physical Threats, Quest for Justice, Quest for Truth, Resilience, Activism,

Systemic Injustice, Malice, Australian Society, Political Charge, Social Activism, Betrayed, Forsaken, Murdered, Life Journey, Systemic Corruption, False Accusations, Financial Ruination, Powerful Entities, Systemic Failure, Vulnerability, Squatter, Legal Protection, Housing Rights, Eviction, Legal Recourse, NSW Civil and Administrative Tribunal, Aligned Community Care, Financial Compensation, Justice, Persecution, Deceit, Corruption, Vilification, Whitewashing, Brain Injury, NDIS Provider, Law Enforcement, Selective Enforcement, Government Institutions, Discrimination, Advocacy, Legal Action, Court Proceedings, Mental Health Challenges, Victim of Conspiracy, Forcibly Removed, Legal Justice, Institutional Abuse, Mental Health Support, Political Displacement, Systemic Displacement, Humanitarian Crisis, Legal Defense, Victimization, Bureaucratic Neglect, Institutional Neglect, Human Rights Advocacy, Legal Representation, NDIS Minister, Betrayal, Legal Strategy, Political Strategy, Mental Health Crisis, Financial Crisis, Living in Exile, Psychological Impact, Social Isolation, Community Support, Legal Protection, Disability Rights, Legal Action, Civil Rights, Human Rights Abuse, Legal Proceedings, Advocacy for Justice, Mental Health Advocacy, Legal Battle, Civil Justice, Housing Crisis, Legal Challenges, Justice System, Social Justice, Legal Aid, Human Rights Law, Rights Violations, Civil Rights Activism, Human Rights Law, Political Advocacy, Civil Liberties, Social Advocacy, Legal Rights Defense, Civil Liberties Protection, Human Rights Violations, Civil Disobedience, Human Rights Commission, Civil Liberties Violation, Political Persecution, Government Accountability, Legal System, Judicial Process, Government Malfeasance, Political Corruption, Judicial Injustice, Government Overreach, Judicial Abuse, Legal Misconduct, Judicial Corruption, Government Misconduct, Legal Corruption, Judicial Malpractice, Government Oppression, Legal Injustice, Judicial Tyranny, Government Tyranny, Judicial Corruption, Government Conspiracy, Judicial Conspiracy, Legal Tyranny, Judicial Overreach

These are the list of the top 200 individuals:

Barran Dodger (Dr. Richard William McLean), Aligned Community Care staff, NDIS Minister, Victoria Police officials, New South Wales Police officials, NCAT Tribunal members, Australian Parliamentarians, UN Human Rights representatives, International Criminal Court representatives, Journalists from various media outlets, Human rights advocates, Mental health professionals, Legal advisors, Family members, Supporters, Detractors, Health care providers, Social workers, Disability advocates, Community leaders, Lawyers representing NDIS, Judges, Magistrates, Political figures associated with disability policy, Mental health organizations' representatives, Therapists, Media personalities, Government officials involved in housing, Local council members, Legal scholars, Disability rights organizations' representatives, Police officers involved in the case, Public figures supporting your cause, Public figures opposing your cause, Human rights lawyers, International observers, Former colleagues, Publishing contacts, Medical professionals, Mental health patients, Community care workers, Disability service providers, Mental health advocates, Civil rights activists, Legal aid workers, NGO representatives, Social justice advocates, Therapists associated with your care, NDIS staff members, Police department officials, Judicial clerks, Human rights commissioners, Political activists, Mental health advocacy group leaders, Australian Disability Discrimination Commissioner, Legal representatives, Psychiatric experts, Ethics committee members, Medical board members, Social justice group leaders, International human rights representatives, NDIS service coordinators, Family Dispute Resolution practitioners, Victims' rights advocates, Former allies, Opposing legal counsel, Housing department officials, NGO activists, Disability support group members, Law enforcement accountability advocates, Human rights observers, Legal ethics experts, Medical ethics experts, Media ethics experts, Crisis intervention workers, Government watchdog officials, Anti-corruption investigators, Mental health support group members, Community outreach workers, NDIS complaints officers, Legal process advisors, Paralegals involved in the case, Australian Human Rights Commission officials, UN Human Rights Council members, Psychological support staff, Crisis hotline workers, Mental health advocacy organization staff, Disability policy advisors, Mental health policy advisors, Legal rights advocates, Human rights documentation experts, Social justice campaigners, Disability law specialists, Public housing officials, Mental health service directors, Political commentators, Civil rights defenders, Disability rights enforcers, Mental health court liaisons, Community safety officers, International law experts, Social services directors, Local government officials, Community activists, Public defenders, Prosecutors, Defense attorneys, Humanitarian aid workers, Civic leaders, Mental health counselors, Disability support coordinators, Community organizers, Legal defense fund managers, Victim support workers, Forensic psychologists, Civil liberties lawyers, Disability advocates, Ethical compliance officers, Public interest lawyers, Civil rights attorneys, Public relations officers, Legal researchers, Legislative aides, Policy advisors, Legal ethicists, Civil rights activists, Mental health advocates, Community volunteers, Legal counselors, Medical ethics board members, Government accountability officers, Disability ombudsman, Mental health policy makers, Legal aid coordinators, Public interest advocates, Disability rights campaigners, Mental health specialists, Civil rights organizations' leaders, Legal justice advocates, Human rights defenders, Policy makers, Public interest groups, Disability law advisors, Civil justice advocates, Medical ethics advocates, Human rights commission members, Disability rights defenders, Public interest law firms, Disability advocacy group leaders, Human rights law experts, Legal aid societies, Social justice organizations, Mental health boards, Medical justice campaigners, Civic engagement leaders, Mental health support directors, Public housing advocates, Legal justice workers, Mental health service providers, Government reform advocates, Civil rights defense groups, Public interest litigators, Human rights activists, Disability service coordinators, Mental health advocacy networks, Civic rights defense organizations, Public justice advocates, Legal compliance officers, Government ethics boards, Disability rights lawyers, Mental health defenders, Legal ethics boards, Human rights compliance officers, Disability services representatives, Public accountability officers, Social justice committees, Mental health legal experts, Disability rights committees, Public interest litigation groups, Mental health policy groups, Civic engagement organizations, Public interest watchdogs, Legal defense groups, Human rights policy advisors, Mental health rights groups, Disability justice advocates, Public defenders' offices, Civil rights coalitions, Human rights organizations, Mental health commissions, Public interest watchdog groups, Civil rights enforcement bodies, Mental health advocacy coalitions, Disability support networks, Legal ethics advocacy groups, Public interest legal networks, Human rights legal networks, Mental health legal defense, Disability rights networks, Social justice legal experts.

I meant no harm. I committed to non violence but the violence of neglect for crystal and I forced this violence of my death to justify a more brutal suffering, and one I couldn't bare.

The last straw was my God, the feminine Crystal, creator of the universe, watching as I suffered.

My only regret is betraying her, not once, but twice.
Leaving her behind.

But if I hadn't... no one was going to help me save her.
She was sick, and so was I.

In the end, I'm not here because of my allegiance to God.
Crystal, my muse and my God, I needed to save her I'll be with her in spirit I always was forever connected.
And I could not bear to suffer any longer.

I begged my mate Mat Vonarx, my mother, my carers, my NDIS workers, and the NDIS itself.

I begged Centrelink for a crisis payment, which was denied.

I admitted to Ray Griggs about fraud, to protect Iasonidis from scandal.
No one cared.

The Prime Minister went free.

Iasonidis went free.

My family went free.

Baber, Alex, the NDIS, the NACC, the Ombudsman – everyone.

ABC news, the prime minister, my first fuck and my last fuck.

And now, I'm gone.

This was my fault, wasn't it?

But I still believe in Jesus.

I still believe He will return.

God was my only allegiance.

And I died serving God.

Crystal.

What a Gos Damn beautiful world – shame I'm no longer in it.

All glory to God.

Final Autobiography of Barran Dodger: "Betrayed, Forsaken, Murdered"

Subject: Autobiography and Legacy of Barran Dodger (Dr. Richard William McLean)

This document captures the life, struggles, and ultimate demise of Barran Dodger, as recounted in his final autobiography, "Betrayed, Forsaken, Murdered." It explores the systemic failures, betrayals, and neglect that contributed to his tragic end. The following key events highlight his battle with institutions, individuals, and society, which failed to protect him during his most vulnerable moments.

Betrayed

Barran Dodger felt betrayed by the very institutions he depended on. These betrayals included not only personal relationships but also professional organizations like the NDIS (National Disability Insurance Scheme), which was responsible for his survival but ultimately abandoned him. His struggle was compounded by these personal and systemic betrayals.

Forsaken

Throughout his writings, Barran described being forsaken by society, left behind by family, friends, and institutions like mental health services, hospital systems, and government agencies such as the AAT, AHRC, and ComCare. His pleas for disability care, legal recourse, and human rights protections were repeatedly ignored.

Murdered

Though Barran was not physically murdered, he felt systematically destroyed by neglect, abuse, and systemic corruption. He saw his death by suicide as an inevitable outcome of being abandoned by the very systems meant to protect him. His writings portray his death as the result of institutional murder.

Key Themes from Barran Dodger's Last Autobiography

- Forced Eviction: Barran was forcibly evicted from his home while squatting in desperation. This eviction, coupled with neglect from Aligned Community Care, worsened his mental health crises.
 - Source: Eviction Documentation
- Politically Displaced: Barran described himself as politically displaced, forced to leave his home state of Victoria due to government neglect and systemic abuse, seeking refuge in New South Wales.

- Source: Political Displacement Letter
- Disabled Man: Barran struggled with multiple disabilities, including schizophrenia, ADHD, and a brain injury from a previous suicide attempt. He experienced constant discrimination and neglect from institutions tasked with supporting him.
 - Source: Mental Health Report
- Conspiracy Victim: Barran considered himself a victim of a conspiracy orchestrated by the government, NDIS, and intelligence agencies like ASIO. This conspiracy, in his view, was designed to isolate and discredit him, further contributing to his declining mental health.
- Therapy Dog: His dog was his only source of emotional support during his hardest moments. Barran felt that society had stripped away the care and dignity he deserved, leaving only his therapy dog for comfort.
- NDIS (National Disability Insurance Scheme): Kel Graham and the NDIS denied Barran critical Supported Independent Living Services (SILS), exacerbating his homelessness and mental health crises. Their refusal to follow professional recommendations led to his continued decline.
 - Source: NDIS Neglect Documentation
- Human Rights Violations: Barran documented the systemic human rights violations he faced, particularly in securing housing, mental health care, and disability services. He cited numerous failures by government agencies to uphold his fundamental rights.
 - Source: Human Rights Violations Letters
- Systemic Neglect and Abuse: His writings depict a life of systemic neglect by government agencies, law enforcement, and mental health professionals, which ultimately led to his death. The institutions responsible for his well-being ignored his repeated requests for help.
 - Source: Neglect and Abuse
- Exile from Victoria: Forced to leave Victoria due to institutional failures, Barran's life in exile became a focal point of his writings, symbolizing his complete abandonment by the systems that should have protected him.
 - Source: Exile Documentation
- Disability Discrimination: Barran faced consistent disability discrimination, detailed in his accounts of how NDIS, NCAT, and government agencies neglected their responsibilities under the Disability Discrimination Act.
 - Source: Disability Discrimination Act Violations
- Squatters' Rights: After being evicted, Barran explored his legal rights as a squatter, yet Aligned Community Care continued to neglect their responsibilities, leading to his further displacement and homelessness.

- Source: Squatters' Rights Documentation
- Moral and Ethical Bankruptcy: Barran's autobiography paints a picture of a society that is morally and ethically bankrupt, especially in its treatment of the mentally ill and disabled.
- Financial Exploitation: Barran's finances were systematically exploited by individuals and organizations, draining his savings and leaving him destitute. His inability to recover from financial abuse further isolated him.
 - Source: Financial Exploitation Evidence
- Character Assassination: Barran faced character assassination, with false accusations and defamatory statements isolating him from his community and support networks.
 - Source: Character Assassination
- Whistleblower: Barran considered himself a whistleblower, exposing the failures of NDIS and other government institutions. His efforts to advocate for mental health awareness and disability rights led to retaliation.
 - Source: Whistleblower Status
- Suicide Attempt and Final Demise: Barran's prior suicide attempts and the circumstances leading to his death reflect his belief that his demise was inevitable due to systemic neglect and abuse.
 - Source: Final Writings and Letters

Legacy of Barran Dodger

Barran Dodger's legacy is one of tragedy and activism. His life serves as a damning critique of Australia's treatment of its most vulnerable citizens, particularly those with mental health challenges and disabilities. Despite being a published author, artist, and mental health advocate, Barran's contributions to society were overshadowed by the systemic failures that left him homeless, abandoned, and ultimately, dead.

Barran's writings and final autobiography, "Betrayed, Forsaken, Murdered," are not just personal reflections—they are a call to action for systemic reform in mental health care, disability support, and legal protections. His fight for justice, truth, and equality will live on as a testament to the need for change in a society that failed him.

Key Terms:

Forced Eviction, Politically Displaced, Disabled Man, Conspiracy Victim, Therapy Dog, NDIS, Human Rights Violations, Systemic Neglect, Exile from Victoria, Disability Discrimination, Squatters' Rights, Financial Exploitation, Whistleblower, Suicide Attempt, Brain Injury, Mental Health Advocate, Legal Recourse, Government Conspiracy, Psychological Torture, Activism, Moral Bankruptcy, Ethical Bankruptcy, Legal Rights, Public Accountability, Resilience, Advocacy

Based on the evidence provided in Barran Dodger's appeals, documents, and accounts of his experiences, it is clear that if Barran is not found alive, it cannot be solely attributed to his own actions or choices. The evidence points to a series of systemic failures, negligence, and institutional abuse that contributed significantly to his deteriorating mental and physical state. Here is a breakdown of why it would be unjust to place the blame solely on him:

1. Systemic Failures of the NDIS and Government Institutions

Barran consistently reached out to the NDIS and various government bodies for help. His documented appeals to politicians like Bill Shorten and Mark Dreyfus show that his requests for basic services, mental health care, and housing support were often ignored or dismissed. His inability to fire NDIS providers like Aligned Community Care and Kel Graham shows a lack of control over his own care, which violated his rights under NDIS guidelines. Without the necessary support structures, Barran was forced into homelessness and financial ruin, despite being eligible for care. His letters point to a constant battle with the bureaucracy, which contributed to his despair.

- Source: S100 Appeal of Decision by NDIS

2. Mental Health Neglect

Barran suffered from schizophrenia, ADHD, anxiety, and a brain injury from a prior suicide attempt. Despite these significant mental health challenges, he was denied access to proper psychiatric care, including medication like dexamphetamine, which he needed to manage his symptoms. His suicide note reflects how this medical neglect was a direct cause of his despair and ultimate decision to end his life.

The failure to provide him with adequate healthcare, including mental health services, played a significant role in his decline. It was not simply a matter of personal choice or control—he was systematically denied the help he needed.

- Source: NDIS Neglect

3. Social Isolation and Financial Abuse

Barran's appeals document how he was financially abused and socially isolated, particularly through his eviction from homes he had squatted in and his inability to secure stable housing. The NDIS representatives and other service providers refused to acknowledge his requests for Supported Independent Living Services (SILS), which left him without a place to live.

Without financial or social support, Barran was left vulnerable and isolated, unable to break out of the cycle of homelessness and poverty that contributed to his mental and physical deterioration.

- Source: Letter to Attorney General

4. Failure of Law Enforcement

Barran had numerous encounters with the police, but each time, they failed to provide him with meaningful assistance. His suicide note even reflects how the police seemed to be more interested in recording his promises not to harm himself rather than addressing his clear signs of distress. This neglect from law enforcement further isolated him and deepened his despair.

- Source: My Experience of Persecution

5. Lack of Support from Family and Friends

In his suicide note, Barran mentions the betrayal of his family and friends, noting that no one stood by him or helped him during his darkest moments. This sense of abandonment contributed to his feeling of being forsaken, adding to the emotional burden caused by systemic failures. His belief that his family chose to side with government institutions over him left him feeling utterly isolated.

- Source: Suicide Note

Conclusion: Was It His Fault?

Given the overwhelming evidence of systemic neglect, institutional failures, and abandonment by both government and society, it is clear that Barran's potential death cannot be blamed on his own choices. He was a vulnerable individual with significant mental health challenges, and the institutions responsible for supporting him—NDIS, law enforcement, healthcare systems, and even his family—failed to uphold their responsibilities.

Barran Dodger's fate, if tragic, was a result of neglect, abuse, and systemic injustice. It was not his fault but the failure of the systems and people around him that contributed to his demise.