The Grim, my dear, the Grim! cried Professor Trelawney, who looked shocked that Harry hadn't understood. The giant, spectral dog that haunts churchyards! My dear boy, it is an omen - the worst omen - of death! Harry's stomach lurched. That dog on the cover of Death Omens in Flourish and Blotts - the dog in the shadows of Magnolia Crescent... Lavender Brown clapped her hands to her mouth too. Everyone was looking at Harry, everyone except Hermione, who had gotten up and moved around to the back of Professor Trelawney's chair.

Pofter, I thank you Daga was slipping by breathless, but his face was full of suppressed triumph. You're wondering, perhaps, how I do as you were never to tell, his eyes glittering. I've just been to your office, Lugin, too forgetful to take your poison tonight, so I took a goldenrod sting, and very lucky it did. Only for me, I mean, trying to your heart was a certain risk, this stance at it told me all I needed to know. I saw no swelling signs this poisoning and did of course. Indeed? Lugin began, but Daga covered his.

Heels Hensen stayed at home again - after burning all the letters - he got out a hammer and nails and boarded up the cracks around the front and back doors so no one could go out - He burned Tipton through the Tulips as he worked, and jumped at small noises

He is known around at home again after leaving all the letters he got out a letter and still not heard on the rocks around the house and back down as an one could go out - he knows from through the letters as he wanted - and passed as well as that.

Look, Adam, what I think, unfortunately, is that if we're going to do something, if the school governors have been so brave
