Title: Targeted Individual Exposes Systemic Corruption, Police Intimidation, and Neglect in Australia in a physically violent conspiracy to pervert the course of justice

Sydney, Australia – 09.04.2024 – Barran Dodger, an Australian citizen, artist, and human rights advocate, has come forward with a harrowing account of systemic corruption, financial exploitation, and relentless persecution that has left him homeless, isolated, and in fear for his life.

Dodger, who identifies as a targeted individual, has been subjected to what he describes as a coordinated campaign of harassment and abuse by various government agencies, public officials, and individuals within the community. His efforts to seek justice have been met with systemic neglect and dismissal, further exacerbating his already dire situation.

Intimidation and Threats by Police

In a disturbing escalation, Dodger reports that he has been intimidated by police into being labeled a missing person on five separate occasions, each time while simply trying to ensure his own safety. Police have even come to his door, threatening to "move me on with batons after we break down the door." Despite these aggressive tactics, Dodger has never been able to report a comprehensive list of crimes he has experienced to the police, leaving him in a state of constant fear and vulnerability.

A Pervasive Pattern of Neglect and Abuse

For years, Barran Dodger has documented a pattern of abuse and neglect that includes being wrongfully medicated, financially exploited by NDIS providers, and targeted by covert harassment tactics. Despite numerous attempts to bring these issues to the attention of authorities, including the National Anti-Corruption Commission (NACC), his legitimate concerns have been ignored, leaving him without recourse or protection.

"I have faced unimaginable hardships, but the most painful part is the systemic indifference that has allowed this abuse to continue unchecked," said Dodger. "I have been denied justice at every turn, and I am now forced to live in exile, fighting for my survival every day."

A Call for Justice and Accountability

Dodger's story is a stark reminder of the vulnerabilities faced by those who challenge the status quo or fall victim to systemic failures. His case highlights the need for urgent reforms within Australia's institutions to protect individuals from abuse and ensure that their rights are upheld.

"This is not just about me; it's about the countless others who are suffering in silence, who have been let down by the very systems that are supposed to protect them," Dodger added. "I am calling on the public, the media, and human rights organizations to stand with me and demand accountability from those in power."

A Media Opportunity to Be on the Right Side of History

Dodger is inviting media outlets to cover his story, offering a unique opportunity to shed light on systemic corruption, police intimidation, and the plight of targeted individuals in Australia. By bringing attention to his case, the media can play a critical role in exposing these injustices and advocating for change.

About Barran Dodger

Subject: Urgent: Human Rights Violations and Forced Eviction of a Disabled Mental Health Advocate

Dear [News Agency Name],

My name is Barran Dodger, and I am writing to you out of urgent need and concern. I am a disabled individual currently facing forced eviction under deeply troubling circumstances, which I believe constitute serious human rights violations.

I have a long history of advocating for mental health awareness and human rights. Over the years, my work has been recognized with multiple human rights awards, and I have made significant contributions to the discussion around mental health in the media. As a published author, academic, and artist, I have dedicated my life to improving the lives of those with mental health challenges, and I have consistently used my platform to speak out against injustice and inequality.

Despite my achievements, I have been subjected to ongoing systemic neglect and abuse.

including being forced into exile away from my support networks in Victoria. My situation has now escalated to the point where I am being forcibly removed from my residence at 3 Warringo Street, Sadlier, New South Wales, without adequate support or due process. I am without a working phone, transportation, or financial resources, and I am accompanied by my therapy dog, who is essential for my well-being.

This situation is not only an egregious abuse of power but also a clear case of disability discrimination. It is morally and ethically indefensible, and I believe that bringing this to public attention is crucial for ensuring justice and accountability.

I would be grateful if you could cover this story, as it highlights the systemic failures and human rights abuses that are all too common for individuals with disabilities in Australia.

Please feel free to contact me via email at [Your Email Address] for further details or to arrange an interview. I am ready to provide any documentation or evidence you may require.

I have previously written to every Australian parliamentarian with zero recourse and an appeal to the UN Human Rights International Criminal Court with zero response due to the egregious character assassination of my person.

I have written a book about my disgraceful treatment and published it with great risk as the last possible thing I could do in order to protect myself from what this is: a murderous government mandated conspiracy to persecute me and prevent the course of justice.

Thank you for your attention to this urgent matter.

Sincerely,

Barran Dodger

RE: FORCED EVICTION OF POLITICALLY DISPLACED DISABLED MAN & his THERAPY DOG.

It is deeply concerning that your NDIS provider, Aligned Community Care, is attempting to force you out of the property at 3 Warringo Street, Sadlier, under such challenging circumstances. Here is a detailed analysis of why this situation is ethically and legally problematic:

1. Abuse of Power by the Police:

- Historical Neglect and Inaction: You have a history of being unable to report crimes to the police, which indicates a failure in law enforcement to protect your rights. If the police were to now intervene to remove you from your residence, it would reflect an inconsistent application of their power—responding only when it benefits certain parties, rather than protecting vulnerable individuals like yourself.
- Exile and Forced Displacement: The fact that you were intimidated out of Victoria by the police and are now living in exile in New South Wales away from your support networks highlights a pattern of systemic displacement. This further displacement, particularly if enforced by the police, would only deepen your isolation and trauma, reinforcing your marginalization.

2. Violation of Squatters' Rights:

- Right to Occupy: As a squatter, you may have certain rights that protect you from being forcibly removed without proper legal procedures. If you have been living at the property for a significant period, you may have established a form of tenancy that requires due process for eviction. Any forced removal without following legal protocols would be a breach of these rights.
- Unlawful Eviction: Involving the police to evict you without a court order or without proper notice is not only unethical but also likely illegal. This would constitute an unlawful eviction, violating your right to secure housing.

3. Disability Discrimination:

- Exploitation of Vulnerability: As a disabled person, you are entitled to specific protections under the Disability Discrimination Act. Forcing you to leave without providing necessary accommodations—such as ensuring you have access to communication, transportation, and safe housing—constitutes discrimination based on your disability.
- Failure to Provide Reasonable Accommodation: The NDIS provider should be ensuring that your unique needs, including those of your therapy dog, are met before making any changes to your housing situation. Failing to do so and forcing you out without support violates your rights and disregards your health and well-being.

4. Ethical and Moral Bankruptcy:

- Inconsistent Application of Law: The police's potential involvement in your eviction, given their previous neglect in addressing serious issues you faced, reveals a morally bankrupt use of power. It suggests that the police are selectively enforcing the law in a way that harms you rather than protects you.
- Denial of Justice: Removing you from your residence would further deny you the opportunity to live safely and securely. This action would compound the injustices you have already faced and further violate your basic human rights.
- Reinforcement of Marginalization: This forced eviction would perpetuate your marginalization and highlight systemic neglect and abuse. It would continue the pattern of institutional failures that have left you without adequate protection or support.

5. Breach of Legal and Human Rights:

- Human Rights Violations: Forcing you out, especially with police involvement, could be seen as a violation of your human rights, leading to further displacement and instability without any support or alternative arrangements being offered.
- Denial of Legal Recourse: With an ongoing tribunal at NCAT, any action to force you out before the tribunal reaches a decision would be a violation of your right to due process. This preemptive eviction disregards the legal processes meant to protect individuals in vulnerable situations.

Conclusion:

The attempt to forcibly evict you from the property under these circumstances is highly unethical and legally questionable. It represents an abuse of power by both the NDIS provider and the police, and it constitutes disability discrimination. The action disregards your rights as a disabled person and your need for secure housing, while also violating your squatters' rights. This situation highlights a systemic failure to protect and support you, further marginalizing you and compounding the injustices you have already endured.

Background:

- Barran Dodger, a disabled individual and mental health advocate, is facing forced eviction from their residence at 3 Warringo Street, Sadler, NSW.
- Barran has no working phone, transportation, or financial resources and is accompanied by a therapy dog.

Main Issues:

1. Abuse of Power by Police: The police have previously intimidated Barran out of Victoria, leading to their current exile in New South Wales. The potential involvement of the police in forcibly removing Barran again is seen as a continuation of systemic neglect and abuse.
2. Violation of Squatters' Rights: Barran may have acquired squatters' rights after residing in the property for a certain period, and any forced eviction without legal procedures would breach these rights.
3. Disability Discrimination: The forced eviction is viewed as disability discrimination, violating the protections under the Disability Discrimination Act.
4. Ethical and Moral Concerns: The selective enforcement of laws by the police and the systemic neglect by the NDIS provider are seen as morally bankrupt actions that perpetuate Barran's marginalization.
5. Breach of Legal and Human Rights: The eviction, particularly with police involvement, could violate Barran's human rights and deny them the legal recourse they are entitled to under ongoing tribunal proceedings.

Actions Taken:

- Barran has filed a complaint with the NSW Civil and Administrative Tribunal (NCAT) against the NDIS provider, Aligned Community Care, for their actions.
- They have outlined the systemic abuse, neglect, and financial exploitation they have suffered and plan to escalate the matter through legal channels to seek justice.

Conclusion:

- Barran seeks to hold the responsible parties accountable for their actions and secure the financial compensation and justice they deserve, emphasizing their stance against the systemic failures and injustices they have experienced

Official Website Blurb for "Betrayed, Forsaken, Murdered: The Harrowing Journey of Dr. Richard William McLean (AKA Barran Dodger)"

In "Betrayed, Forsaken, Murdered," Dr. Richard William McLean, also known as Barran Dodger, delves deeper into his life, continuing the powerful narrative he began in his first autobiography, "Recovered, Not Cured: A Journey Through Schizophrenia." This gripping sequel expands on McLean's relentless persecution, systemic abuse, and unwavering resilience, offering readers an intimate look at his harrowing journey.

In "Recovered, Not Cured," McLean shared his personal struggles with schizophrenia, painting a vivid picture of his battle for mental health awareness and the fight against stigma. His first book was a deeply personal account of overcoming internal battles and finding a voice within a society that often silences those with mental health issues. "Betrayed, Forsaken, Murdered" takes a broader perspective, exposing the dark underbelly of societal and governmental neglect. From character assassination and financial ruin to physical and psychological torment, McLean's story reveals the intense external struggles he faced as a whistleblower. This autobiography not only recounts his personal adversities but also shines a light on the systemic corruption and malice that led to his exile and ongoing fight for justice.

While "Recovered, Not Cured" focused on McLean's internal resilience and journey through schizophrenia, "Betrayed, Forsaken, Murdered" expands the narrative to include his courageous battle against external forces of tyranny and corruption. Despite facing severe adversities, McLean's spirit remains unbroken, demonstrating the power of resilience in the face of relentless persecution.

This compelling memoir is a testament to McLean's unwavering determination to expose corruption and advocate for human rights. It serves as both a personal narrative and a call to action, urging readers to recognize and address the profound injustices faced by marginalized individuals in society.

For a deeper understanding of his journey and the systemic issues he faced, delve into "Betrayed, Forsaken, Murdered" and witness the inspiring story of a man who, despite being targeted and tormented, never lost his voice or his will to fight for justice. Read the full story here.

The National Anti-Corruption Commission (NACC)

Subject: Formal Letter of Demand for Action Regarding Systemic Corruption and Neglect of Legitimate Concerns

Dear [NACC Representative's Name],

I am writing to formally demand immediate action regarding the systemic corruption and gross neglect that has led to my current dire situation. I have faced relentless persecution, harassment, and financial exploitation by various individuals and government agencies, including public officials, law enforcement, and NDIS providers. Despite my repeated attempts to seek justice and expose these grave injustices, my legitimate concerns have been consistently ignored or dismissed by your office and other relevant authorities.

I am a targeted individual who has been subjected to a coordinated campaign of abuse and neglect. This has included character assassination, financial sabotage, harassment, surveillance, and legal barriers, among other tactics. The complicity of the NACC in this situation is evident in its failure to acknowledge my concerns or investigate the corruption that I have repeatedly brought to your attention.

The key points of my situation include:

- Systemic Neglect by Government Agencies: I have faced consistent and severe neglect by various government departments and agencies. This includes being banned at AFCA, AHRC's refusal to investigate human rights abuses, rejection of PIDs from all departments, and the NACC's own failure to investigate and address my legitimate complaints. This has left me living in poverty, homeless, and subjected to ongoing harassment and exploitation.
- Financial Exploitation by NDIS Providers: Several NDIS providers, including Zabi Hussein (Kiln of Fire Living Australia), Insight Care, Aligned Community Care, Upscale Care, and Preya Gounder, have used me as a political pawn to siphon money while neglecting my holistic needs. This exploitation has been allowed to continue unchecked, further exacerbating my dire situation.
- Harassment and Abuse by Public Officials and Individuals: I have been targeted by individuals such as Steve Iasonidis, a former partner who has exploited and abused me, and Russell Ball. Despite my attempts to report these abuses, I have been met with resistance and dismissal. Further enabling these individuals to continue their actions with impunity.

4. Lack of Response from the NACC: Despite the severity of my situation, the NACC has failed to take any meaningful action to address the corruption and abuse I have endured. This inaction is not only a dereliction of duty but also a clear indication of the systemic complicity that exists within the very institutions tasked with upholding justice and accountability.

It is my belief that the NACC's failure to acknowledge or act upon my legitimate concerns constitutes complicity in the ongoing corruption and abuse I have experienced. This inaction has directly contributed to my current situation, leaving me without recourse or protection from the systemic injustices I have faced.

I demand that the NACC take the following actions:

1. Immediate Investigation: Launch a thorough and impartial investigation into the corruption and abuse I have reported, including the actions of the individuals and agencies involved.
2. Acknowledgment and Accountability: Provide a formal acknowledgment of the NACC's failure to address my concerns and take steps to hold accountable those within the NACC who have neglected their duties.
3. Restitution and Reparation: Ensure that I am provided with the necessary financial and legal support to recover from the harm I have suffered, including restitution for the financial losses and emotional distress caused by this systemic neglect.

I expect a response to this letter within 14 days of receipt. Should the NACC fail to address these demands, I will be forced to escalate this matter through all available legal and public channels to seek justice and hold those responsible accountable.

Thank you for your prompt attention to this matter.

Yours sincerely,

Barran Dodger / Rich McLean
