

Who is covered by the SRC Act?

The SRC Act establishes the workers' compensation scheme covering Commonwealth employees and the employees of licensed corporations. The scheme is characterised by an integrated and cost effective approach to injury prevention, workers' compensation and occupational rehabilitation.

What is the role of Comcare?

Comcare is the national authority for work health and safety, and workers' compensation. We understand and promote the health benefits of good work. Comcare is the national work health and safety and workers' compensation authority.

What Comcare covers?

cover of relevant medical, rehabilitation and related costs associated with a work-related injury or illness. lump sum payments for permanent impairment due to a work-related injury or illness.^{21 Jan 2021}

How do I apply for Comcare?

To apply: Go to your nearest Social Service Office (SSO) to find out more. Each SSO administers ComCare financial assistance and links applicants up with other forms of assistance they might need, such as family services. The SSO will assess your eligibility for assistance.^{31 Dec 2021}

What is the SRC Act?

The SRC Act establishes the workers' compensation scheme covering Commonwealth employees and the employees of licensed corporations. The scheme is characterised by an integrated and cost effective approach to injury prevention, workers' compensation and occupational rehabilitation.

Is ComCare an insurer?

The Comcare scheme covers self insured workers' compensation services for Australian Federal government departments, as well as private corporations who compete with Federal government departments. GB's General Manager of Self Insurance Shaun Meehan has more than six years experience in the Comcare scheme.

Commonwealth of Australia

A Commonwealth employee is a person who holds an office or appointment in the Australian Public Service, or holds an administrative office, or is employed by a public authority of the Commonwealth.^{2 Oct 2019}

What is an Australian public service employee?

6.1 Summary. 6.1. 1 Australian Public Service (APS) employees are citizens and members of the community, but the right to serve the community as APS employees comes with certain responsibilities.

About self-insurance

For:

Employers and managers

Information seekers

A licence to self-insure allows eligible corporations and Commonwealth authorities to manage their workers' compensation arrangements and liabilities under the Safety, Rehabilitation and Compensation Act 1988 (SRC Act).

Benefits of self-insurance

Self-insurance under the SRC Act provides:

- a single nationally streamlined approach to managing workers' compensation
- uniform conditions for all employees covered, regardless of location.

It enables eligible corporations and authorities to operate under a nationally consistent legislative scheme, the SRC Act, rather than multiple state jurisdictions with differing legislation.

Current or former Commonwealth authorities

Current or former Commonwealth authorities are eligible to apply for self-insurance to the SRCC.

For questions about eligibility you can contact Comcare by emailing secretariat@comcare.gov.au or phoning 1300 366 979.